PREFACE.

The first edition of this document was issued in April, 1890. It was the first attempt to collect and publish a biographical catalogue of the Seminary. As soon as the task was undertaken it was found that complete records had not been preserved. A file of catalogues and a few scattered notes embraced all the material at hand. After several months of vexatious but not fruitless research through correspondence, advertising, year-books, associational and state minutes, and reminiscences collected from old students and others, the author was enabled to organize and publish the material found in the first edition. Of course, the information in many cases was necessarily meagre.

The issuance of this second edition at the end of two years finds its justification in these four facts, viz.: (1) this (1892) is the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Seminary's existence; (2) it is the last year of its existence as an independent institution; (3) there has been a large number of changes and removals since April, 1890; (4) new and valuable material has been collected since the publication of the first edition. This new edition contains more than 250 changed-addresses of old students. It adds also about 150 new names with the desired facts. It will be found that additions have been made of more than 3,000 new facts—facts of history. Such a biographical catalogue will be simply invaluable for future historians of the Baptist denomination.

A new and important feature is the condensed history of the Seminary, very carefully prepared by Rev. C. E. Hewitt, D.D., a firm friend and efficient helper in the conduct of the institution since 1889.

The general arrangement of names needs no explanation, with the possible exception of the horizontal line. All names preceding it were either B.D. graduates or recipients of that degree at a later date. Names under the line were either English or partial course men. But beginning with the class of 1888 there is both a B.D. course and an English course whose regular and partial course men respectively, are separated by this line.

The Scandinavian department of the catalogue, except the faculty, will be found following the class of 1894 of the American department. In 1884 this department was divided; the Swedes left the Seminary, but the Danes and Norwegians remained, hence their students follow alone through the class of 1894. The Swedish department was reorganized in in autumn of 1888, and so their students follow the Dano-Norwegian, and complete the list.

A list of the most uncommon abbreviations employed will be found at the end the list of students.

The index of names will be found serviceable for ready reference.

Observe the use of these signs :—

Asterisk (*), deceased; dash (—), following the date of a biography, indicates that the person named still continues in the given place or occupation;

Semi-colon (;), after a date indicates that said person has just resigned and has not accepted a charge elsewhere;

w. c. is an abbreviation for without charge.

The addresses of undergraduates in italics signify either their former home, age or temporary address.

Where students were other than Baptists, the fact is mentioned.

Before using the catalogue, consult the last page for corrections and additions of information received after the first forms had gone to press.

Almost every practicable effort has been made to make this edition correct in its information. But with all of the arduous labor which it involved, some records are incomplete. The omissions and irregularities which appear are chargeable to their authors' lack of accuracy in filling out the blanks. Typographical errors will escape the most trained eye, but it is to be hoped that none will be found which seriously mar the book.

One urgent request is made. When you take up the catalogue and look through it, make note of any omission which you can supply, any error which you can correct, or any additional information which you can furnish; put all together and send without delay to the author. When you change your address or vocation do not forget to drop him a line. Compliance with this request on the part of each person will save the compiler of a third edition untold trouble.

The author of this contribution to the history of theological education, and of the Baptist ministry, will feel himself amply repaid, if he may thereby in any wise advance and enhance the interests of the kingdom of our Lord and of His Christ.

HISTORY.

Twenty-five years ago a tree was planted. There follows in these pages a history of its growth and a catalogue of its fruits.

ORIGIN.

The seed whence the sapling sprung had been planted in 1860, when at a meeting of Baptists in Chicago a Society was formed called "The Theological Society for the Northwest." Three years later a charter was obtained for "The Baptist Theological Union located at Chicago," its object being "the founding, endowment, support and direction of an institution for Theological instruction."

Under direction of this organization Dr. Nathaniel Colver gave some lectures to a few students in the University in 1865-6, and in the fall of 1866, assisted by Rev. J. C. C. Clarke, began more regular instruction with eight or ten students.

PERMANENT ORGANIZATION.

All this, however, was provisional, and the Trustees were constantly planning and working for something more adequate and enduring.

At last, at a meeting on the 11th of September, 1866, action was taken which was destined to determine the whole future of the institution. It is recorded in these words: "Voted: That Rev. G. W. Northrup, D.D., Professor of Ecclesiastical History in the Rochester Theological Seminary, be invited to the professorship of Systematic Theology."

A month later Rev. J. B. Jackson, pastor at Albion, N. Y., was invited to the chair of Ecclesiastical History.

These brethren accepted the calls extended, and after some preliminary financial work in the spring and summer of 1867, began their work of instruction in October, Prof. G. W. Warren being associated with them in the department of Biblical Literature and Exegesis.

With these three professors and nineteen students the Seminary began the twenty-five years of history which we review to-day. There was then not much else but professors and students,—a few old books, a few thousand dollars of endowment, some pledges for current expenses, a building lot near the University, and, best of all, some generous and devoted friends; but practically no library, absolutely no building, almost no endowment, and no adequate assurance of means to meet current expenses. Provision, however, was made for securing funds by the appointment of Dr. G. S. Bailey as Financial Secretary.

Thus the permanent organization was completed and a genuine beginning made, and from that time until now, through this quarter of a century, there has been no break in the continuous service of this institution. Alike the Trustees and the Faculty had committed themselves to its work, and, though difficulties and obstacles have been often appalling, they have been bravely faced and eventually overcome.

THE FIRST BUILDING.

The first marked step in advance was the erection of a building to become a home for this new institution. On the 24th of June, 1868, just as the first class of three was ready to graduate, the building committee was instructed to proceed immediately to the erection of the proposed structure. On the 18th day of August, 1868, the corner stone was laid, and on July 1st, 1869, it was dedicated. Its location was on Rhodes avenue, corner of Thirty-fourth street. It contained four residences and accommodations for 60 students, besides rooms for recitations and lectures, and cost about $60,000. In this building, which still has on its front the words, "Baptist Union Theological Seminary," the school opened in the fall of 1869, and was "at home."

This year there were 40 students, twelve of whom were in the graduating class, and with Dr. A. N. Arnold in the chair of Biblical Literature and Exegesis in place of Prof. Warren, resigned, and Dr. William Hague as Professor of Homiletics and Pastoral Duties, in addition to Dr. Northrup and Prof. Jackson, the young institution was well organized for effective work. During this year also the Hengstenberg Library was placed within reach of the students.

The fourth year of the school brought important changes. Three years of overwork had ruined Prof. Jackson's health, making necessary his resignation. Dr. Hague, also, on account of the illness of his wife, was compelled to resign. But Dr. E. C. Mitchell and Dr. R. E. Pattison were added to the faculty and the work moved on.

At the beginning of the next year the Board purchased the Ide Library. Great efforts were also made to increase the endowment, but with little success. A proposition was likewise made to unite in one organization the various societies for securing beneficiary funds.

The close of this year completed a period of five years since the permanent organization. During this time there had been 97 students in attendance. Thirty-seven of these had graduated and not one had died. With some satisfaction the friends of the Seminary reviewed the past, and with assured hope looked forward to the future.

THE SECOND FIVE YEARS.

During the second five years of its existence the institution, with the one exception soon to be named, experienced no striking changes, but enjoyed a steady growth and a constantly widening and deepening influence. The one ever-present, harrassing experience of these years was a distressing lack of funds. The great fire of 1871, in which many friends of the Seminary lost their all; the second great fire in 1874, more disastrous to the interests of the Seminary than the first; the general business depression, the shrinkage of values, the frequent financial failures and general discouragement—all conspired together in threatening utter wreck to the financial hopes and prospects of the beloved institution.

Nevertheless, says the report of the Board at the ninth anniversary in 1877: "We take pride in the INTERNAL MANAGEMENT of the Seminary under our indefatigable and able President and his assistants."

At the beginning of the last year of this period, 1876–7, Dr. T. J. Morgan was elected Professor of Homiletics and Rev. W. W. Everts, Jr., acting Professor of Church History.

A very important addition was made to the library during the year 1873–74 by the purchase of the library of the late Dr. George B. Ide, of Springfield, Mass. It consisted of above three thousand volumes, embracing the most select works in every department of Theology, together with a wide range of Classical and English literature.

Toward the close of this period also there had been a change in the office of Financial Secretary. In May, 1875, after seven and a half years of very efficient service, Dr. G. S. Bailey resigned, and near the close of the same year, Dr. T. W. Goodspeed assumed the position.

THE SCANDINAVIAN DEPARTMENT.

Among the students who came to the Seminary in the earlier years were a few Scandinavians. The country north and west was filling up with immigrants from Sweden, Denmark and Norway, and among them were not a few Baptists. To gather these into churches and to lead them in missionary work among their countrymen, trained pastors were needed. For the training of such young men as felt that they were called to the Baptist ministry, there was no other school available than our Seminary. They were accordingly welcomed to its classes. But it soon became manifest that, on account of their limited education and their want of familiarity with the English language, they were unable to avail themselves fully of the advantages of the prescribed courses of study. Moreover, they needed to get at least their Homiletical training in the language in which they were to preach.

A strong pressure was therefore brought to bear upon the Seminary to organize a Scandinavian department, which was opened during the school year of 1872–73, with John A. Edgren, B. D., as instructor, and three Swedes and two Danes as students.

The next year there were in this department five Swedes and two Danes; the next, nine students. And thus the department continued to grow until, during the year 1883–84, there were 32 students and two instructors, Prof. N. P. Jensen having been called to assist Prof. Edgren in his increasing work.

At the close of that year, Prof. Edgren withdrew from the institution, taking with him the Swedish students, with a view of establishing an independent Swedish institution for general and ministerial training. The department was then continued for the benefit of the Danes and Norwegians in this country and from the mother countries, and Prof. Jensen was made the head of the department, and the lamented Edward Olson appointed to assist him. Under the same able leadership this department has continued its growing work from that time until now. It is now known as the Dano-Norwegian department. There are associated with Prof. Jensen, Prof. Henrik Gundersen and H. C. A. Samson. There have been 23 students in this department during the last year.

In 1888 the Swedish brethren, not succeeding as they had anticipated with their independent school, negotiated for a return to the Seminary. They were cordially welcomed back by their Alma Mater, and a distinctively Swedish department was organized, which has enjoyed since then a great and growing prosperity. Forty-four students have been in attendance this year under an able faculty of three professors: C. G. Lagergren, M. A., B. D., Eric Sandell, B. D., and Nels N. Morten, B. D.

REMOVAL TO MORGAN PARK.

The second decade of this history begins with the removal to Morgan Park. For reasons alluded to above, the Seminary was threatened with utter financial shipwreck, in that same tempestuous era which did disable and finally destroy, its sister institution, the University.

From this threatened disaster there seemed to be no escape but by removal from the city to some convenient suburb which should offer a considerable amount of property as a gift, and furnish opportunity for more economical living. For more than a year, at different times the Board had the matter under consideration, and at last on the 12th of September, 1876, after it became evident that the Centennial Educational movement was not going to bring relief, a vote was passed to accept the offer made by the Blue Island Land and Building Company and remove to Morgan Park.

This offer included the gift of the large brick building now known as the Dormitory which was first used for all purposes, the five acres of ground on which it stands and other gifts of lots and lands amounting in all to about fifty acres.

In this new location the school opened in the fall of 1877. To say that there was no sadness connected with the removal would be untrue, but all the clouds were silver-lined.

To say that the movement was not attended with some trepidation on the part of the friends of the school would be a mistake, but looking upon the results, every one must now say as President Northrup said five years ago: "I have never doubted the wisdom of that decision."

Further changes in the Faculty also attended the removal to Morgan Park, and the beginning of the second decade of Seminary history. Dr. J. R. Boise then became Professor of New Testament Interpretation, bringing with him his wide reputation as an able and accurate Greek scholar. Now on the other hand, Dr. Mitchell urges acceptance of his resignation, and his request is granted. And at the close of the year, June 17, 1878, we find in the records, this, which in view of later developments, becomes an interesting statement: "Dr. Northrup presented the name of W. R. Harper as a suitable person to fill the vacancy in the Seminary in the department of Hebrew." What followed from the grafting of this choice scion upon the vigorous Seminary stock is too well known to call for further comment here. Three years later, upon the resignation of Dr. T. J. Morgan, another interesting bit of record tells of the election June 8, 1881, of Eri B. Hulbert, D. D. to the chair of Ecclesiastical History, thus introducing one whose invaluable service, both in his department and in the general affairs of the institution, still continues and is highly appreciated.

ENDOWMENT.

The school now had a building and grounds, a faculty and students, but almost no endowment. Hitherto all efforts in this direction had resulted in comparative failure. Still the most strenuous exertions were required every year to secure means to meet current expenses, and constantly the Board was struggling with problems of current debt.

This state of things could not long continue. Alike the wisdom and the strength of the Financial Secretary were well-nigh exhausted; the patience of the churches which were annually called upon to pay expenses and make up deficiencies, was nearly exhausted; the hopes and anticipations of the poorly paid faculty were also dying of exhaustion. It was evident that a change of some kind was imminent. The school must either be endowed or buried. But the Seminary was alive and could not be buried, and therefore must be endowed. Then came that grand gift of $30,000 by Mr. E. Nelson Blake of Chicago, to which, after almost infinite toil and struggle on the part of Secretary Goodspeed and President Northrup and other friends, $70,000 was at last added, gathered in from all parts of the country west of Ohio.

The success of this movement was the signal for the beginning of another and companion movement to raise another $100,000. Of this amount $40,000 was contributed by Mr. John D. Rockefeller of New York. To this $11,000 more was speedily added. But here the inflow ceased, and it seemed for a long time as if failure must follow. But victory came at last, and the endowment of $200,000 which for nearly a decade had been sought for, at last had been attained.

The year 1884–85 was marked by the election to the chair of Homiletics of Dr. A. J. Sage, then pastor of the First Baptist Church of Hartford, Conn., and the following year by the presentation to the Seminary, through the liberality of Dr. T. M. Colwell, of Lowell, Mass., of the very valuable collection of 5,000 volumes, known as the American Bible Union Library.

ADDITIONAL BUILDINGS.

But the wants of the Seminary were, by no means, yet all supplied. The year 1886 marks the beginning of an important movement to secure much-needed additional buildings. Up to this time everything had been crowded together into one structure. It was dormitory, dining-hall, library, chapel and recitation building, all in one. Scarcely more than half the students could be accommodated with rooms. One of the recitation rooms, overcrowded, served as a chapel. A part of the 25,000 volumes of valuable books lined the walls of a room used as a lecture-hall, and the rest were stowed away in boxes, wholly inaccessible for practical use, and all were daily exposed to destruction from the forty fires that were kept up in a building by no means fire-proof. The recitation-rooms, such as they were, were needed for other purposes.

Under these circumstances, and with the prospect of a continued increase of students which could not possibly find accommodation in the one building, a stirring and almost irresistible appeal was put forth by the Secretary under the authority of the Board, asking for $50,000 to build a library building and a recitation hall, and to cover the deficit in current expenses on account of the inadequacy of endowment.

The movement was encouraged and stimulated by a second evidence of the generosity and good will of Mr. Rockfeller who offered to give $10,000 outright, and $10,000 more on condition that $30,000 in addition should be secured by May 1, 1887.

Led by Secretary Goodspeed, who was now looked upon as a conquering general in the financial field, the forces marched to victory, and at the next anniversary in 1887, Dr. D. B. Cheney, the President of the Board, turned the first sod preparatory to the erection of Blake Hall, which was at once erected at a cost of about $30,000., and was named in honor of Mr. E. Nelson Blake, who had contributed one-third of its cost. Record must here be made of the fact that through all these years of financial struggle, Mr. Edward Goodman, who was chosen Treasurer at the very first meeting of the Union in 1863, performed most efficiently and gratuitously the onerous duties belonging to that office which he still continues to hold.

It was at the begining of this period, May 12, 1886, that Ira M. Price, Ph. D., then a student in the University of Leipsic, was engaged as Instructor in Hebrew. A year later he was made Associate Professor of Hebrew and the Cognate Languages, and the next year Professor in the same department, which he still conducts with an ability and scholarship which gives eminent satisfaction.

THE LATEST YEARS.

During all these years the internal development had kept pace with the financial growth and material improvement. The faculty had been from time to time enlarged and strengthened, and there had been a steady increase of students until, in '87-'88, an even 100 had been reached. Since that time the increase of students has been still more rapid, reaching this year nearly 200. The faculty also has been strengthened by the addition of Dr. Galusha Anderson, who left the presidency of Denison University to take the chair of Homiletics. Dr. Boise did indeed present his resignation a year ago, but has still been doing a large part of the work of the department as professor emeritus.

The Swedish department has also been organized and attained a vigorous growth under an able corps of teachers, and an important addition made to the Dano-Norwegian faculty, as already indicated.

The Library also has been systematically catalogued, classified and arranged under the direction of our expert librarian, Mrs. Zella A. Dixson, so as to make both the books and their contents easily and immediately available by the faculty and the students.

Meanwhile the Alumni and former students of the institution have been proving to the world the value of the training here received. They have gone out from their Alma Mater in every direction, into Illinois, and into the Northwest, and into all the United States and unto the uttermost parts of the earth. And they have gone to preach the Gospel. Very few have departed from the faith, not many have left the ministry. Almost all those who have received a full course of instruction have continued their work as pastors or missionaries or are engaged in some kindred work, as religious teachers, editors or secretaries of benevolent societies.

There are no humbler and more patient toilers in difficult and discouraging home fields than many of those who have gone out from this institution. There are no better missionaries in foreign lands than those who have sat at the feet of the present President of the Missionary Union. There is no company of pastors in the denomination who have done more to "bring things to pass" in their churches than the Alumni of this Seminary. From no institution has there gone forth during the last two decades more able leaders in our denominational affairs. A search through the General Catalogue will discover a surprisingly large list of men who, though their Alma Mater is but twenty-five years of age, have already attained to eminence in position and influence in the denomination and in the Christian world.

PRESIDENT NORTHRUP.

The limits of this historical sketch prevent the insertion here of the careful recognition which will be elsewhere made of those persons who, in various ways and occupying different official positions, have contributed during these twenty-five years to the welfare of our beloved institution.

But, in the eyes of the students of the Seminary, for whom this book is specially designed, that would be a very imperfect history, however brief, which should not contain some recognition of the man whose life has been bound up with it during the entire quarter-century.

In selecting a faculty for the permanent organization of the Seminary in 1866, the attention of the Board was providentially turned to Dr. G. W. Northrup, then Professor of Ecclesiastical History in the Theological Seminary at Rochester, and on the 11th of September he was chosen to fill the chair of Systematic Theology. He accepted the appointment and began work in his new position in October, 1867. He had taught at Rochester for ten years and was well known as an able and successful instructor. He had also, for a year and a half, been acting pastor of the First Baptist Church in Rochester, and had gained a reputation as a preacher of unusual power.

He came therefore to his new position with the discipline and culture of a decade of experience, and in the full maturity of early manhood. He had not before taught in the department which he now entered, but he was already a Theologian. His mind naturally inclined to grapple with the great problems of philosophy and theology, and he had given special attention to the study of these subjects.

Accordingly he soon found himself at home in his new chair. He won to himself, from the beginning, the assured confidence of the Board of Trustees, and gained a strong hold upon his pupils which has continued to this day. Of teachers it may be said, as of poets, they are born not made. Dr. Northrup was manifestly a born teacher.

It might be difficult to determine by analysis the precise elements of his success, but these hundreds of men who have listened to his instruction know well of his power as a great teacher. His class-room has never been a place for the rattling of the dry bones of a defunct theology. The truth of God has been to him a present reality. He has held it up in the light of the nineteenth century—has held it up to give light upon the issues of this present time. With a strong grasp he has laid hold of the truth on the one hand and of his pupils on the other, and has brought them together. Ever allowing and encouraging the greatest freedom of opinion and the development of individuality on the part of his students, he has impressed himself remarkably upon them.

In addition to his work in the class-room Dr. Northrup has been President of the Seminary. He was not appointed to this position in the beginning, but was elected to the office in 1869. This appointment, however, did not materially change his relation. He was from the first the controlling spirit of the institution. How wisely and well he has conducted its affairs is manifest from the prosperity and growth already described in these pages.

Recognition should also be here made of the additional service which he has rendered in many ways. For several years he carried a large part of the work in the department of Homiletics, and has often, of necessity, assumed some of the duties of other departments.

To this has been added, at times, severe and wearing service in aid of Trustees and Financial Secretaries in securing needful funds for the support of the institution. In the arduous and successful efforts for endowment in 1881-83 he was intimately associated with Secretary Goodspeed at every step, and secured, in person, some of the largest subscriptions.

A very important element of the President's relation to the Seminary is its permanency. From the beginning to the end of the twenty-five years, amidst all vicissitudes, he has steadily retained his position. His chair has never been empty. The institution has never been without a head. How much this has had to do with the success attained is not easily estimated. But no one will question that the permanency of the President, together with his distinguished ability, has contributed largely to the permanency and ever-increasing prosperity of the school over which he has presided.

More than this may not now be said. The time to write the history of Dr. Northrup's connection with this institution, to which he has devoted the greater part of his life, and which will be his most enduring monument, has not yet come. His work is not yet completed. Other hundreds of young men may feel the inspiration of his power. Other thousands may thank God for this eminent teacher of preachers as he goes on in the second quarter century of his appointed service.
